Barnant Compliance to the RoHS (Lead-Free) Directive

Barnant products are in compliance with European Union directive 2003/11/EC (Restriction of Brominated Flame Retardants - Effective August 15, 2004).

While Barnant products do contain lead, they are intended to transfer fluids for medical applications (Category 8) and for use in industrial and laboratory fluid transfer applications (Category 9). These two categories are specifically excluded from the scope of the RoHS Directive. Barnant products further fall outside the scope of categories 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 10 of Annex 1A to Directive 2002/96/EC (WEEE). We are therefore also in compliance with European Union directive 2002/95/EC (RoHS - Effective July 1, 2006).
